

Senior Engineer Machinery Systems

The Senior Engineer Machinery systems is an experienced machinery systems engineer with in-depth understanding of ship & machinery systems for ships, with a special focus on sustainable future-oriented solutions. You are a team-player and have a strong passion for both the technical and the commercial part of the job. The mindset is innovative with a strong passion for sustainability.

Main tasks:

- Be a central resource in Sirius Design & Integration's development work on sustainable machinery systems.
- Take responsibility in developing competitive ship specifications.
- Technical support and discussions with the Shipyard, Shipowner and the Project team.
- Participate in Sales and Marketing activities.

Background/qualifications

- MSc or Bsc
- Relevant experience

Personal skills:

- Creative, with a passion for energy efficient sustainable solutions
- High work capacity
- Manages to keep an overview while keeping your eyes on details
- Manages to translate visions into action
- Good at establishing understanding with external resources

Please send your CV and application to:

Sirius Design & Integration AS
e-mail: henning.borgen@siriusdi.com

